POWER chat

Imagine not having to wait for the mail man and then travel in the sun or rain to wait in line to pay an electricity bill. Imagine just sitting at home with your laptop and within a few clicks your electricity bill is viewed and paid.

These benefits of T&TEC's e-billing service were discussed on May 3 when the Commission launched 'Power Chat', a weekly 5-minute programme on I95.5FM. This is the Commission's latest public awareness initiative and it will be broadcasted on three stations in the first instance.

The intent of the radio programme, according to host and Corporate Communications Manager, Annabelle Brasnell, is to provide members of the public with information and advice on matters related to the electricity service. "It is another avenue to inform and educate our customers about new and existing services as well as general tips that can improve their lives," said Ms. Brasnell. The programme features one-on-one talks with T&TEC's senior officials on a variety of topics including electricity conservation, bill payment options, account management, current stealing and electricity safety.

Power Chat airs every Monday, Wednesday and Sunday as follows:

I95.5FM- Wednesday at 3:55 p.m.

107.7FM- Sundays at 9:45 a.m.

94.1FM- Mondays at 7.55 a.m.

Encouraging customers to tune in, Ms. Brasnell said, "this five minutes of invaluable discussions is certain to light your way to a brighter future."
